PREZ SAYS...

Hey, I'm excited and let me tell you why. I have never seen the level of volunteerism that I see in the club right now. Public service seems to be on the minds of most of our membership and all of you deserve a pat on the back for that. Your willingness to give freely of your time and talents is what keeps this organization, or any organization going strong. At the next meeting, look around you and see the growth that we have experienced this past year. By-the-way, as you look around find someone you don't know and stick out your hand.

Various parts of our community have grown to expect a high quality of service from the local amateurs. And, as we head into the spring and summer months, there is going to be plenty of work for all of us to do with public service events, Sky Warn, ARES, RACES, VE testing, field day, theory and code classes, sponsoring school groups, the novice roundup, and the picnic to name a just a few. Take your pick. there is certainly something for everyone. What do you want to get involved in. If you've hesitated to take that first step to get really active, then listen to the committee reports during the business portion of the meeting and make a point of meeting one of the committee chairpersons at the break time. For the most part, your only investment will be your time.

If you don't already know, our Amateur Radio/Computer Swap Fest will be on the 16th of May this year and it promises to be the best one yet. We are actively contacting computer user groups to inviting them to participate. We have secured the Mega-Mart for the location and expect to sell about 200 tables. Special events this year vill be a field day for the Kenwood Kids (a chance for our sponsored clubs to contact other Kenwood Kids, a first!) VE testing, displays by various vendors, and and tables for ARES and RACES so they can get their message out. We will have two grand prizes - a TM-731A Dual Bander for Hams and a lap-top computer for those of us who are into bits, bytes, rams and roms. As we get closer I'll be asking for help from each of you.

Once again, this organization grows in size and service because of all of us. I challenge you to pick an area of interest, let your interest be known and get involved. It feels good when we use our particular skills for our community.

QSLing by Rick Brown, KD0SU

Do you, don't you, or more importantly do you do it right! The sending of QSL cards is a long standing tradition in Amateur Radio. From the very earliest days of operation, Hams have sent QSL cards to confirm their radio contacts. The collecting of QSL cards is one of those facets of Ham Radio that can be as absorbing as the hobby itself. Of course one of the reasons most operators collect QSL cards is for operating awards such as Worked All States, DXCC, and VUCC.

While sending OSL cards may seem very straight forward, there are some things that need to be considered. One of the most important things is to fill out the cards correctly. There are a couple of things to consider here. One very important point is to not have any strikeovers on the card. If a QSL card appears to have been altered in any way it may not be acceptable for an award. If you make a mistake, fill out a new card. The receiving operator will greatly appreciate it. Another important point is to make sure all pertinent information is on the card. If the receiving operator wants to use your card for a CW Worked All States, it won't do them any good if the mode of operation isn't included. I recently received a card where the time of the contact was put in the frequency block and the actually frequency was not included. Needless to say, I won't be able to use that card for any Generally, if you are using commercially designed cards and fill in the blanks completely and correctly you should have nothing to worry about. Other items items you may wish to include are your county, and grid location for VHF/UHF operation. While operators may not be particularly interested in those things when they first start, later on it may become There are many vendors of QSL cards and many different designs that are available. Many operators claim that the better looking card you have, the better return rate you will have. At the very least, a neat card with all of the required information will serve the purpose very well. I recommend even if you are not a big time operator or collector of QSL cards that you have some on hand for those occasions when someone does want to exchange QSL cards with you. The PPRAA has some generic Colorado QSL cards you can use for those occasional requests.

One of the concerns with QSLing today is the high cost of postage, especially to the DX stations you work. It is one reason many stations don't QSL unless you specifically request it and even then, you may have to help out in some way. For stateside stations, especially those rarer states it is always nice to send them a self-addressed-stamped envelope (SASE) if you really need the card. This not only cuts down on their costs, but usually speeds up getting the return QSL. Postage costs in may overseas countries are much higher than we are used to in the United States, so many DX stations will not QSL direct unless you include International Reply Coupons, or what is known as a "green stamp". That is a dollar bill folded neatly inside an envelope and sent along with your QSL. While I don't necessarily condone this method, it is sometimes needed for collecting QSLs from rare DX stations. For best results, follow the DX stations intructions in sending your QSL.

Another method of sending and receiving QSL cards from overseas stations is the ARRL QSL Bureau. Many DX stations will tell you to QSL to the "BURO". The ARRL operates both incoming and outgoing QSL bureaus which allow you to send and receive your DX QSL card in bulk. If you are a patient person, this allows you to send and receive cards at a much reduced cost. Details of the operation of the QSL bureaus are printed periodically in QST.

I still enjoy getting QSL cards after many years of operation. I am usually the first to check the mailbox each day and I am always thrilled when there is a QSL card there to add to my collection. It is a part of the hobby I enjoy very much and I hope you do as well.

PPRAA VES MEET TO PLAN

1992 EXAMS

A group of volunteer examiners who form the nucleus of the PPRAA examination team met after the December 14th examination session. The meeting was an opportunity to decide on some policies and dates for the conduct of future examinations. These policies are the result of the liberalization of examination rules by the FCC and ARRL, and the decision of the ARRL VEC to recommend positions but to back the decisions of the local VE teams.

The following policies were arrived at after spirited discussion by the VEs and reflect those issues on which a consensus was reached. 1) For code test credit, code copying must consist of "head copy" or written letter copy, with no significant portion of the copy consisting of written dots and dashes. If more than an insignificant portion of the written copy is dots and dashes, then answers to questions derived from that copy will not be accepted. For the purpose of finding one minute of correct copy, a dot and dash transcription will be considered a missed character. To ensure the timely completion of all examinations, the time to answer questions on an exam element will be limited. Code elements will be limited to a 30 minute maximum time, written elements will be limited to one hour each, except that elements 4A and 4B will be limited to two hours maximum each. 3) Because of limited facilities, it may be necessary to limit the number of examinces at any exam session. If necessary, places for the session will be provided based first on the order of preregistrations, and then walk-in registrations. Of course, we will try to accomodate all examinees to the extent feasible. 4) The VE team will try to acquire special equipment to assist in the examination of handicapped applicants. Methods of financing the VE team expenses will be brought up with the board. 5) The schedule of examinations for 1992 is planned to be tests on the second Saturday of March, June, September and December, plus one during the Swapfest, Additional exams to support the amateur radio classes will be scheduled as needed.

Information on the classes may be obtained from the education committee chairman. 1991 was quite a year for the VE examination effort. The codcless technician license has really spurred a boom in amateur radio, and it's shown in the numbers of examinations given this year.

We appreciate the cooperation of the applicants at our sessions, who have shown remarkable patience while swamped examiners attempt to keep up with the work load. No doubt 1992 will be an even busier year for the VE team, and the importance of preregistering well in advance for exams will grow. The continued efforts of all the local VEs will be sorely needed, as will the cooperation of all applicants.

Battling Totalitarianism Through Amateur Radio

All Amateur Radio operators (and most people who are just passingly familiar with Amateur Radio), are aware of Amateur Radio's role in providing important and perhaps life-saving communications during disasters. The Soviet coup attempt in August, 1991 showed how Amateur Radio can play a significant role in major world events. The following account of the role of Amateur Radio during the Soviet coup attempt is taken from an article in the December 2nd issue of the New Yorker Magazine; part of an article written by David Owen.

A young man by the name of Andy Fyodorov spent the Soviet coup attempt inside the Russian Parliament Building with Boris Yeltsin and his supporters. It was feared that phone lines would be cut off, leaving them isolated. Mr. Fyordorov's job was to "maintain communication between Boris Yeltsin and the outside world." Mr. Fyordorov did the most logical thing (in the mind of an Amateur, that is). He set up an Amateur Radio network. Amateurs all over the country were able to communicate vital information such as news and troop movements in their areas. Yeltsin was able to communicate effectively with the outside.

The coup attempt failed and the telephone lines to the Parliament were never actually cut. Amateur Radio still played an important role. Without the Amateur Radio network, much vital information would never have been passed to and from the Russian Parliament. Telephones would have been ineffective or inefficient in passing some of this information.

One of the many reasons for the failure of the attempted coup was that the coup plotters failed to control communications media. Complete control over communications is one key to the success of a totalitarian government. In the "information age", this type of control is becoming more difficult. Amateur Radio operators with their high-tech skills and their ingenuity play a big role in helping to keep communications open during major political upheavals. An American friend and business partner of Mr. Fyordorov said it best when speaking of his friend: "Battling totalitarianism with Ham Radio is exactly his idea of a good time".

COLORADO COUNCIL OF AMATEUR RADIO CLUBS

The CCARC spring meeting will be held on Saturday, March 28th, starting at 1:00 PM in the Chapel Hills Mall in Colorado Springs, as previously scheduled. However, the management of the Mall has afforded us a meeting room that is different than announced ("The Meeting Place"). Signs will be posted on the door of the "Meeting Place" directing you to the alternative room. Please feel welcome and follow the instructions in the November 1991 newsletter. All council clubs are urged to send a voting delegate for this important meeting. Dutch lunch at Furrs Cafeteria (next door) from 11:30 to 1:00 PM...please join us. Oak, KOROL

RAMPART HAMVISION NETWORK

This update is intended to spark some interest in current RHVN activities in the Colorado Springs area. The "input" receiver is crystal controlled on 911.25 Mhz, and it can be accessed with slightlymodified "home" TV equipment available for under $50.00 at discount stores. This includes a trasmitter and a receiver plus the little wall-transformers!. Most sets have "baseband" inputs & outputs plus the usual "channel 3" RF connections. This 900 Mhz. stuff is state-of-the-art, using SMT components! The transmitter boasts about 10-milliwatts output, but several sources can supply "brick" amplifiers for the band. If the sets you select use a voltage-controlledoscillator (VCO), you only need to readjust the frequency pot. A new "nano-wheel" array was obtained from W6OAL's Olde Antenna Lab in Denver. This is a 4-wheel, horizontally-polarized antenna with 6 DbD gain at 911.25 Mhz. It is supported by a framework of PVC plumbing pipe.

Out put frequency for the RHVN repeater will be vertically-polarized on 421.25 Mhz, which exactly coincides with Cable Channel 57 on any cable-ready VCR or television receiver. Signals have been "squirted" over much of the city with both color video and on-carrier audio, which brings me to a new subject; Audio on a video (fast-scan) ham signal shouldn't be "music" (whatever that menas). FCC Part 97.113(d) disallows music on the amateur radio frequencies. Yet, it is OK to transmit DTMF tones for control purposes. Also, "dual tone" multifrequency can be construed to be a "duette" by some musicians! Is this music? Is MCW a type of music? Samuel F. B. Norse may have thought so. To comply with Part 97,113(d), I intend to restrict the audio channel on the RHVN repeater to sound effects and voice only. (please don't sing!) There are large collections of sound-effects available, synthesized by computer technology. For example, my Macintosh produces stuff like "giggledy gulp, choo-choo, alien gun, and many others. If you see-hear the repeater on the air it will have strickly non-musical audio content. Tune in, you might like it! Oak, KOROL
